

Aura Joins the Family Online Safety Institute

Washington, D.C. -- Today, Aura, a leading provider of digital security for consumers, becomes the newest member of the Family Online Safety Institute (FOSI).

The mission-driven technology company is fostering a safer internet by empowering people with the tools they need to simply and effectively manage their family's security and privacy, without stress. Already trusted by millions, Aura's easy-to-use, integrated suite of services makes comprehensive digital security accessible to all.

“As technology continues to evolve, people can get overwhelmed trying to understand and mitigate the risks to their personal information,” says FOSI CEO Stephen Balkam. “Aura’s understanding of how to holistically approach identity, privacy and security makes them an asset to consumers who are working to stay safe online.”

Aura’s comprehensive digital security solution provides identity theft, financial fraud and device protection through a single, integrated platform. The company uses a variety of services to support people in their digital lives, including proactive monitoring across the entire online spectrum - including the dark web and criminal and court records - as well as protection tools such as credit lock, lost wallet recovery, antivirus, VPN and more. This holistic approach to addressing people’s most practical daily concerns aligns with FOSI’s policy and parenting work, and reflects the need for users, particularly parents, to have access to intuitive tools that help to keep themselves and their families safe.

“At Aura, we’re working to make a safer internet, which will require collaboration with existing leaders to promote real change and protect families and communities from digital fraud,” said Aura chief communications officer, Howard Clabo. "By joining FOSI and its bench of like-minded member companies, we will further empower families to live with the peace of mind that their information will remain private and protected.”

FOSI originally issued this announcement on July 8, 2021.

About FOSI

The Family Online Safety Institute is an international, non-profit organization that works to make the online world safer for kids and their families. FOSI convenes leaders in industry, government and the non-profit sectors to collaborate and innovate new solutions and policies in the field of online safety. Through research, resources, events and special projects, FOSI promotes a culture of responsibility online and encourages a sense of digital citizenship for all. FOSI's membership includes many of the leading Internet and telecommunications companies around the world.
